

CO-CURRICULAR ASSESSMENT 2022-2023

Please rate how your participation in co-curricular activities and events has assisted you in achieving these goals by rating each area on the following scale: 56 Respondents

1 = poor; 2 = seldom; 3 = adequate; 4 = good; 5 = excellent

Number of Respondents	Activity
21	Tuesday Speaker
23	Club Meetings/ Club Activities
7	Native American Week Activities
2	Diversity Week Activities
10	Internships
17	Research Activities
2	Veterans Honoring

1A Student will display technical and critical thinking skills through effective oral and written communication. Rating for Outcome: 4.25

1B Student will display technical and critical thinking skills through effective oral and written communication. Please provide examples.

Yes

The activities I attended were diverse enough and helped me to enhance my communication skills both orally and written. For example, I had to communicate with others during the Halloween Masquerade and also write down winners, those who received their winnings, etc.. During Tuesday Speakers I also got to communicate orally with the speakers and other students who attended. There was always a good chance to engage and interact with others intellectually.

Presenting research on data collected. Searching and completing scholarships on time. Providing Tribal College Journal magazine with written work.

I work better when I'm in class not online classes.

Today we face many challenges, like today what is our sexual script. The sexual script we fall into is determined by which culture we are from; this will indicate how we will behave as people. Which person initiates sex, to who eats first at the table? Other ways this can affect us, is who cooks and cares for the children in the home. Another way is by which the partner handles the finances and makes more of the decisions for the future of the family.

I like to take every opportunity as a stepping stone to learn what other natives are paving the way for students. I learn from their presentations how to present myself and learn from my peers with instruction and leadership

I found it much easier to refer back to well written and organized notes, than to go searching in the book or asking and having to have the teacher re show you.

Clubs meetings

Writing essays and research papers with sources, along with being able to present an oral presentation with resources.

Public speaking, writing papers

Through my writing and speech classes

Professional meetings and problems solving using Robert's Rules of Order.

When doing any work related to school

Writing out chemical equations with the whole class was extremely effective for all.

Balling crazy out the game

Class participation, attending technical workshops, updating writing skills,

For example presenting a PowerPoint

I did a few Power Point presentations based on the research I conducted.

In the co-curricular that I have participated in, they have required me to display my researched information digitally so others can view it. Additionally, I have had to discuss my findings orally.

Through the Advisory Board, I have had to organize my thoughts and present them in an effective matter to the rest of the members.

Some of the skills that I learned this year are already making a difference in my life. One idea I have is to start a consulting company that will handle the structuring and management of businesses and organizations for the surrounding communities here in Standing Rock. Money through programs comes out every year and hardly anyone applies for them. My objective for my agency is to create jobs and businesses for my people.

Public speaking and engaging in lectures and conversations pertaining to the lectures

Public speaking is a very broad term but I will use it. If the person uses confident public speaking skills, they would be able to wing it and pull it off. Even when talking about the failures and trails they went through.

In work, at home, and in school

I went to the AIBL conference and entered in the elevator pitch competition where we have 60 seconds to give a business plan, I got second place and won $200. I was also a part of the business plan team who won second place in Las Vegas as well.

Presenting ideas for clubs and research

Yes and its fun. Dressing up presents unity as a student body.

Student was given options to role play personal projects in classes.

Being able to manage club members and being able to spur their interest.

Communication skills, networking skills, public speaking skills

Hyper class

Presenting in class.

Putting my own input into the meetings next time that I attend. It was my first time going to a student government meeting, so I didn't know what was going on. Also stating ideas that will help benefit clubs.

Read and write out thoughts on what was written from understanding what was read.

They can have a better outcome if they would want to put in the work.

It motivated me

I am confident enough in my writing skills obtained thru SBC, that I want to author a book.

This communication skills through verbal skills and also technology skills in emails, flyers, speaking at events, working with others well with teamwork.

Skill building exercises

Time Management and communication

In writing research papers and or any grievances

In-class discussion and written assignments in my NAS classes lend themselves to deeper understanding of the presented and reading material.

2A Students will display leadership skills that promote ethical, responsible, dependable, and respectful behavior. Rating for Outcome: 4.43

2B Students will display leadership skills that promote ethical, responsible, dependable, and respectful behavior. Please provide examples.

Yes

Officer members of each club got to utilize and practice their leadership skills at meetings, club activities, etc.

I've joined clubs on campus, participated in club activities, attend club meetings, and give feedback when necessary.

Everyone is so far friendly and the clubs are much spoken about calmly and where it can be understood directly.

Joining the student government was a choice that I made hoping that other students would follow my example. Living traditionally is another way I hope people follow, I hope more people come back to our ways and support or traditions.

We did not have many events to display this, but overall when we did students carried themselves respectfully.

Our class has gotten small and the few devoted students that have stuck it out have gotten a lot closer and we have been able to get deeper into discussions and debates or lectures.

We all treat each other with respect and kindness.

Working on a science and business project with a group, and being able to work and communicate with others effectively and efficiently.

Student Government, helping other students

Yes, that is requirement for me.

Organizing outings and cooperation in holding activities for the college.

All skills are leadership and ethical in any class or school setting

Yes, just being in class on time proves to display those skills.

When you are balling and you are in the game but you ball so hard you are out the game

Being respectful to people of all ages, race,

By being present and involved with community events and being respectful for everyone.

I treated nature ethically and cleaned up other people's messes each time I was in the field. I also made sure not to hurt any organisms when in the field.

In the events I have participated in, I have had to take leadership of an event. I had to organize the team, lead most discussions, and more.

As a student representative on the advisory board you need to bring ideas that align with the school's culture and ethics. Usually if you have a rather large idea it is up to you to find information and "get the ball rolling" for your project/idea.

Some of the skills that I developed in my speech class will become useful next year. I plan on running for the tribal chairperson next term. I place a high value on what I have learned so far here at Sitting Bull and am very thankful for all of the opportunities that have come to me.

Participating in clubs and lectures will give the student a sense of leadership

When someone speaks with confidence, even if they don't know what they are talking about, people will listen and then some may follow.

In work, at school, at home

I respect others all the time, especially on campus. I feel that campus should be a safe place, and no one should feel anxiety about who is there and if they are in danger. I've helped with club activities as well for the AIBL group.

Being active in clubs has helped me stay on top of assignments and classes.

Yes.

Students in my class were asked to complete a macro activity to promote wellness within the student body.

By planning events for a club and having the ability to finish it.

Leadership skills lead to respecting others opinions

Whenever I needed help I received it

Being a part of the wellness club - vice president 2021.

Yeah, I noticed the students that attend Sitting Bull College are all very skilled and passionate about what they study. They apply themselves in the clubs, and they are very happy to be a part of the campus. I've noticed there are a good amount of students that remain studying all year long. My class mostly stayed in the class all year.

Do what is right"

Doing these certain characteristics will improve in people's attitude.

I helped others when they needed it

There simply is elite class of humans that graduate from SBC.

Working in groups to finish one goals and follow tasks and finish on time and completing tasks to the best of our abilities and supporting and teaching each other.

Club participation

Show up do your best and communicate

By becoming involved on campus and assisting new students to the proper resources or even assisting them with missed assignments and I like to help with FAFSA

I feel welcome and cared for by and at SBC. I'm impressed by the students in leadership roles, as well as (with little exception) the faculty and leadership.

3A Students will develop work ethics and skills to function independently and cooperatively within a diverse work environment. Rating for Outcome: 4.45

3B Students will develop work ethics and skills to function independently and cooperatively within a diverse work environment. Please provide examples.

Yes

Clubs ran on their own using bylaws and other rules with the help of advisors which is beneficial in preparing for diverse work environments.

Excellent!

It's hard when it's so mixed in age groups, there should be a activity group where we can meet peers closer to our ages.

Yes, the clubs worked together on my occasions and events with plenty of diversity. The outcome was a 5 because it always a good working together and getting to know students in different majors. .

I have found that I do better at not procrastinating if I have a motivator around me to just get started and after I get to going on learning or homework I cannot talk to any one because I lose my train of thought.

Needs some improvement

Examples include entrepreneurship, financing, and marketing.

Working with many different people from different ethnicities

Yes, I will

Social skills and cooperation, respect for other's ideas.

Learning provides good work ethic and skills

Being in attendance as possible, as on time as possible, being respectful of time given by those presenting,

Excellent. For example, sharing a group project.

I had to do some of my research by myself, and be honest with my data even when I didn't get much data. I also helped a few other students obtain their data for their research just to be cooperative.

From the events I have participated in, I have been able to independently work and cooperatively work as well.

Usually if you have a rather large idea it is up to you to find information and "get the ball rolling" for your project/idea.

Starting my internship this year I can see that I have paved the road for many and opened many doors.

By doing group activities and engaging in conversations will give the student insight about what it really means to work as a team and within a diverse work environment

They would be held accountable by the others in the group or club.

In job settings, and in school

Again, the AIBL conference in Las Vegas was a real eye opening experience and I felt very comfortable in the moment. After I won, I had many people come up to me and tell me that I carried myself well and asked me for my contact information to help communicate with professionals.

Yes

Students worked in groups forming activities with others around campus to complete group project.

Very well, it provides a basic but a very much needed skill-set that will allow you to work in a diverse environment.

Excellent

Yes

Workout routine.

I'm very happy with choosing Sitting Bull College as my choice of campus. The instructors are all willing to work with you, and they are eager to help their students learn. The instructors' personalities, in my opinion, is what keeps me studying all semester long. I feel at home when i come back to this campus. That goes for online classes as well; my instructors' personality is what keeps me determined to complete my courses. I think when she explains it, it's so much easier to understand.

Be respectful all creatures big and small

Good!

I became more dedicated

Respect is what makes SBC beautiful. We encounter all walks of life.

We have been doing diversity for a little over a year and it is great we all look to support each other now and we get things done and provide leadership for all students who want to, learn. We all work together as clubs for Tuesday speakers and to feed students and also have been doing outreach for SBC.

Internship work

Work Ethics depend on the person and how they decide to become dependable

Not being from the area it is so beautiful to be accepted and to be able to be a part of groups and lectures that involve all of Indian Country

We're less diverse than many places I've worked, but have a great mix of ages in the student population.

4A Students will demonstrate knowledge of past, present, and future Native American cultures. Rating for Outcome: 4.2

4B Students will demonstrate knowledge of past, present, and future Native American cultures. Please provide examples.

Yes

There was some culture demonstrated during events but only a couple of times. It would be nice to see more cultural activities in place instead of just during Native American week.

I am familiar with some stories, but I am not sure it is correct.

No one is really teaching the significance in most classes unless it is a Lakota class.. This is Hunter Archambault it wouldn't show my email event though I added it.

I gave a speech about Crazyhorse that included a lot of content that I did not know before.

Well we know the future and from the text book knowledge. But not too much of the culture way with students and staff, faculty. Need more understanding of how death, and things we do in our traditions.

I am very excited to push forward in my education and field of work and make sure that I pass along the things I've learned and use the knowledge as a way not only pass along our heritage but to ensure that the generations to come don't have to struggle or wait as long as others like myself to realize we can still learn and teach and taking the first step like myself and just go for it with your head held high! Be confident in the road ahead of you and never be afraid to ask for help because without asking wed get nothing in life.

By being more involved in Native American week and planning activities

Having a deep understanding of the history and culture of the First Nations, and being able to share the knowledge with others.

Native American history classes, Nest immersion, Lakota language classes

Language communications skills, respect, and understanding the traditions handed down through our ancestors.

It is a cultural club and that is the focus.

Any Native American student will provide knowledge in the culture settings

Chemistry goes way back to the way we healed Using many different plants and etc. to mix and make healing ointments.

Real south side standing rocker

Being more aware of all cultures other than my own and being respectful,

Finding distinct trends within the same cultures from different time periods.

Most of my presentations and papers that I completed had components of historical and current Native American cultural activities in them.

During the events I participated in, the events have been based around Native American cultures. However, I am not Native American myself, so this has been a challenge for me. Though, I am excited and willing to learn and immerse myself into the culture.

Well, you do have to keep in mind the school's culture which is primarily Native American but there is not many opportunities to learn about Native Culture as a whole. It is not particularly in line with the advisory board's purpose anyways.

In my speech class, I did a speech on Crazy Horse. The speech was about giving an award to a celebrity and what you would wear to the ceremony. I outlined all of the battles he was at and detailed a battle history for him.

By taking Native American studies courses, it will provide insight and knowledge to the student about Native American cultures

The language is something that needs to be taught and practiced throughout everyday life. A club with this environment would be a good and safe place to learn and grow.

At home I get to teach my children

I grew up here on Standing Rock and represent it proudly wherever I go, I know many stories from my grandmothers and relatives and my time in public school. At Sitting Bull is where I learned to speak my language though, not fluently but enough to introduce myself formally and my parents and grandparents as well. The Native American studies class I took last semester was actually really informational as well, It was with Michael Moore and I really enjoyed it.

Culture club

Yes

Every course offered, my instructor always makes sure to include culture and what that would look like for service delivery in my community.

By understanding our old traditions, and being able to foresee where the Culture may end up.

Learned about native history and cultures, the meanings behind the medicine wheel and Lakota names

Further my education

Lakota/Dakota language courses

In this age, I noticed that there are a lot of people willing to learn their culture. They are embracing it more, and that's what I love about this campus. I noticed that this campus has consistently kept the language going and its becoming more integrated into our lifestyles.

Show and be respectful of all creatures big and small.

We'll have more opportunities coming to our college with the knowledge everyone knows there.

I have a better understanding of the beautiful culture of my heritage

Deep knowledge of ancestry is gained always.

Yes we do provide prayer before meals, honoring songs, tipi risings, and always promoting the language and hoping our efforts help future students to keep, the culture in everything they can.

Native American classes' enrollment

Testing on information for our reservations

In reading The Lakota Way and being able to see the amazing work of students on campus when it comes to traditional healing with plants and harvesting them. Learning through other students and their research into boarding schools. And I've enjoyed learning about the Densmore Project.

Agree. So much is tied to the culture and traditions of the Lakota/Dakota people. I applaud this as someone who continues to learn more about our tribe and community.