REVISED:

POLICY: RESPONSIBLE CONDUCT OF RESEARCH (RCR)

DATE: March 2018

Chapter II, Section 11

OBJECTIVE/PHILOSOPHY:

The role of research in TCU institutions has increasingly taken an important significance. SBC in its strategic goals plan has identified research as a main component the college shall develop within the next decade or two. There is an increased public awareness and support for research in the community. With growing awareness and support for research has come an understandable concern about the way it is conducted. Public-funded research needs to be conducted in a responsible manner.

SBC will be building its research capacity by establishing the RCR training. The college will also be preparing potential faculty, staff, and students to comply if they are interested in potential research funded by public agencies.

REFERENCE:

As part of its efforts to promote research integrity, institutions wishing to conduct public-funded research, or seek public funds for research are required to undertake activities and support programs that enhance education in RCR. The importance of RCR education was first recognized in 1989 in biomedical research. It has since been endorsed by other groups and members of the research community at large. There is ample literature and many resources available that provide avenues to train and prepare potential researchers in RCR such as: formal courses, web-based instruction programs, books, and trainings from experienced and established researchers.

PROCEDURE/CONTENT:

RCR training will: create an environment that fosters open communication, develop a common foundation for research, promote best practices for research, provide a forum for sharing research ideas, increase understanding of what is good research, and finally establish a culture of concern during the conduct of research. Ultimately, the training will eliminate the perceived lack of guidance, and the uncertainty that can slow down the growth of a research culture at SBC.

ORI supports programs designed to promote education and training in RCR that covers nine instructional areas. The general components of the RCR training will include:

- Data Acquisition, Management, Sharing and Ownership
- Conflict of Interest and Commitment
- Human Subjects
- Animal Welfare
- Research Misconduct
- Publication Practices and Responsible Authorship
- Mentor / Trainee Responsibilities
- Peer Review

Steps for training:

1. The training will take place yearly at the beginning of the academic year.
2. The training will last for three hours depending on group interaction.
3. The training will apply to the following groups:
 - All employees and students at SBC who intend to conduct research on federally funded projects from agencies like the NSF, NIH, EPA, and USDA to name a few.
 - The training will apply to faculty and staff at the college interested in submitting research proposal for funding.
 - The training will be mandatory to students in the graduate MS programs at the college. It will be incorporated into the research methods or seminar courses.
 - The training will also apply to SBC faculty, staff, and students involved in federally sponsored collaborative research ventures with other institutions.
 - The training can be extended to tribal employees if the tribe finds a need for the training; especially given that some tribal departments do apply for federal funding and take part in collaborative research.
 - The tribe will make the decision as to what tribal employees need to do.
4. The training module and material will be validated by the Office of Research Integrity.
5. The research committee at SBC will oversee the training.
6. CEUs and/or completion certificates can be issued to validate participation or serve as proof of training.
7. The training is good for a minimum of three years.

REVISED: July 2023

POLICY: VETERANS' RE-EMPLOYMENT RIGHTS LAW

DATE: May 1994

Chapter III, Section 8

OBJECTIVE/PHILOSOPHY:

Under the Veterans' Re-employment Rights (VRR) law, an employee who leaves a civilian job to enter active duty in the Armed Forces, voluntarily or involuntarily, is entitled to return to his/her civilian job after discharge or release from active duty if the basic eligibility criteria of the VRR are met.

REFERENCE:

Department of Labor Fact Sheet OASVET No. 90-10 "Veterans' Re-employment Rights Law"

PROCEDURE/CONTENT:

CRITERIA 1 - The employee shall hold an "other than temporary" civilian job. The job need not be "permanent".

CRITERIA 2 – The employee shall leave the civilian job for going on active duty.

CRITERIA 3 – The employee shall not remain on active duty longer than four years, unless the period beyond four years (up to an additional year) is "at the request and for the convenience of the Federal Government".

CRITERIA 4 – The employee shall be discharged or released from active duty "under honorable conditions".

CRITERIA 5 – The employee shall apply for re-employment with the pre-service employer or successor in interest within 90 days after separation from active duty.

An employee meeting these criteria is entitled to reinstatement within a reasonable time to a position of like seniority, status, and pay. Additionally, a returning veteran may be entitled to a better job than the one he/she left. In its first case construing the VRR Law, the Supreme Court stated, "The returning veteran does not step back on the seniority escalator at the point he stepped off. He steps back on at the precise point he would have occupied had he kept his position continuously during (his military service)." Congress later expressly ratified this explanation, which is known as the "escalator principle". Benefits generally found to be based on seniority, i.e. length of service, are pensions, pay increases, missed promotions, and missed transfers. Additionally, a veteran who returns from the service to a different employer in the same industry covered by the same multi-employer pension plan remains covered by that plan and is entitled to military service pension credit.

Although the "escalator" normally goes up or remains in place, there are times when it goes down. If the employer can establish that the veteran would have been downgraded if he had remained continuously employed, he will be entitled to reemployment in the lower job. If the employer can establish that the veteran would have been laid off in accordance with seniority, he may be entitled to "reinstatement" into a layoff position, with recall rights. If the employer can establish that the veterans' pre-service employment relationship would have been severed altogether, the veteran may be entitled to no job at all, but he might be entitled to severance pay. The whole point of the VRR law is to place the returning veteran in the job he or she would have attained if he or she had remained continuously employed instead of going on active duty. Upon reemployment, a veteran may not be discharged without cause for a period of one year.

The VRR law applies to persons who are inducted (drafted) into the Armed Forces, to persons who volunteer directly for active duty, and the Reservists and members of the National Guard who are called to active duty voluntarily or involuntarily. In addition to performing active duty, reservists and members of the National Guard also perform initial active duty training, active duty for training, and inactive duty training.

There is typically an unpredictable and irrational abuse of power or position that can manifest itself in physical, verbal or non-verbal forms. There is usually an element of vindictiveness attached to bullying and the behavior is calculated to undermine, patronize, humiliate, intimidate or demean the recipient.

Stalking

A form of harassment which is being more commonly reported. It involves pestering an individual, either in person or in writing or electronic formats or on the telephone. Stalking can also involve following an individual or spying on them, alarming the recipient or causing them distress and may involve violence or fear of violence.

Sexual Harassment

Unwanted behavior of a sexual nature. It includes unwanted attention of a sexual nature that denigrates or ridicules or is intimidating. This may be physical, ranging from unwanted touching, groping or the invasion of personal space to sexual assault, rape or indecent exposure. Sexual harassment can be verbal and may include unwanted personal comments or sexual slurs, belittling, suggestive, lewd or abusive remarks, explicit 'jokes' or innuendo, and compromising invitations, including demands for sexual favors. Examples of non-verbal sexual harassment include: suggestive looks, leering, explicit gestures, sending sexually explicit emails or the display of pornographic material on College equipment or premises. Most commonly, the reported incidents refer to the sexual harassment of women by men, although there are reports of women sexually harassing men and of same sex sexual harassment.

Racial Harassment

Unwanted behavior based on race, ethnic or national origin. It includes written or verbal threats or insults based on race, ethnicity or skin color, abusive comments about racial origins, ridicule based on cultural grounds, derogatory name calling, racist jokes, damage to property, the display of offensive graffiti or insignia and incitement of others to commit any of the above.

Religious Harassment

Such behavior may include comments that are patronizing or objectionable to the recipient or which creates an intimidating, hostile or offensive environment for people with disabilities. Sexual Orientation Harassment Unwanted behavior based on known or presumed sexual orientation. Such behavior includes name calling, stereotyping, assault, verbal abuse, actual or threatened unwanted disclosure of sexuality, derogatory comments, excluding same-sex partners from social events or intrusive questioning about a person's domestic circumstances.

Cases of Physical Assault

Sanctions

Additional action may include: referral to counseling, withholding of a promotion, reassignment, and temporary suspension without pay, financial penalties or termination.

This policy is designed to protect all employees from harassment in any way associated with the workplace or work environment, no matter who the harasser is.

Such action may include closing business with a client, reporting a client contact to his or her employer, reporting a public official to an appropriate agency, or any other appropriate action to protect employees.

RESPONSIBILITY: Vice President of Operations

REVISED: July 2023

POLICY: WHISTLEBLOWER POLICY

DATE: April 2024

Chapter VII, Section 2

OBJECTIVE/PHILOSOPHY:

Sitting Bull College is committed to lawful and ethical behavior and expects members of the College community (which includes, but is not limited to students, employees, Trustees, etc.) to act in accordance with all College policies as well as with all applicable laws, rules, and regulations. The purpose of this policy is to encourage College employees - and all members of the College community - to report what they, in good faith, believe or suspect to be violations of College policy, violations of law, dishonesty, fraud, or other misconduct (collectively referred to herein as "Wrongful Conduct") and to protect the person making the report (i.e., "whistleblower") from retaliatory action.

REPORTING:

A. Activities to Report

The College encourages reports of suspected Wrongful Conduct, which can include, but is not limited to, the following:

- Theft, misuse, or other misappropriation of College property, resources, or assets;
- Mismanagement or waste of College funds or College-related funds;
- Improper records destruction;
- Providing inaccurate, false or misleading information;
- Unethical activities;
- A substantial and specific danger to public health or safety;
- Violation of any law, regulation, rule, policy, etc.;
- Forgery or unauthorized alteration of documents; and
- Concealing any of the above actions.

B. Reporting Procedure

An employee or other member of the College community, wishing to make a report of Wrongful Conduct under this policy should do so to an appropriate College supervisor as soon as he or she becomes aware of such conduct. The supervisor is then expected to immediately forward the report to the President. If, for any reason, an employee finds it difficult to make a report to a supervisor, he or she may file the report directly with the President.

A report involving Wrongful Conduct by the President should be reported as follows:

If the subject of the report is the President, the Vice President will immediately notify the Chair of the Board of Trustees ("Board Chair") upon receipt of the report.

To preserve the integrity and effectiveness of an investigation into an allegation of Wrongful Conduct, individuals making a report should refrain from discussing the situation with anyone other than the person to whom the report was made and with appropriate individuals designated by the College during the investigation of the matter. Likewise, a supervisor forwarding on a report should not further discuss the matter other than with appropriate College personnel as directed by the College. The exception to this section is in instances of potential criminal conduct, in which case complaints may also be reported to appropriate law enforcement officials or external entities.

C. Good Faith Reporting

An individual making a report must do so in good faith and have reasonable grounds for believing/suspecting Wrongful Conduct is involved. Individuals making reports are not expected to and should not conduct their own investigation prior to making a report; however, making allegations that are knowingly false will be viewed as a serious offense and may result in discipline, up to and including termination.

D. Anonymous Reporting

Anonymous and confidential reports can be submitted to the President. It is essential that anonymous reports contain as much specific information as possible to justify the commencement of an investigation. An investigation of unspecified wrongdoing or broad allegations will not be undertaken without reasonable and verifiable evidentiary support. In addition, since an investigation of an anonymous report will not include an interview with the reporting individual (because they are anonymous), it may be more difficult to evaluate the credibility of the allegations. Therefore, the nature of anonymous reports may decrease the likelihood of the College's ability to conduct a full investigation into the alleged Wrongful Conduct.

INVESTIGATION

Following the receipt of a report, the College – or the Board Chair in the case of a report made about the President – will appoint an appropriate investigator(s) trained in conducting investigations and free from any conflicts of interest (the College may engage outside legal counsel for these service) who will conduct a preliminary assessment and determine whether an investigation should be commenced based on the facts provided. Prior to initiating a preliminary assessment or investigation, consideration will be given to whether or not the matter should involve law enforcement authorities and whether or not law enforcement authorities should be contacted before proceeding. If an investigation is deemed appropriate, an internal and/or external investigator(s) will proceed with an investigation. The scope and timing of the investigation will vary by circumstance, but an investigation will generally involve a review of relevant documents and other records (e.g., physical documents, emails, browser histories, voicemails, text messages, etc.) and interviews with individuals who may have knowledge of the situation.

If through the course of an investigation the College determines that Wrongful Conduct has occurred, a written finding will be presented to the President or Board for appropriate responsive action. Responsive action will be based, in part, on the nature and scope of the Wrongful Conduct.

A person making a report of Wrongful Conduct may be informed of the disposition of the report and the findings of any investigation, although there may be reasons, such as legal limitations/consideration, not to do so. Additionally, any action taken against an employee as a consequence of the findings of an investigation may be personal and confidential, in which case the reporter will not be informed of such consequences.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Reports of suspected Wrongful Conduct, and investigations of such reports, must be kept confidential to the extent possible. However, consistent with the need to conduct an adequate investigation, the College cannot guarantee complete confidentiality. Disclosure of information related to a report and investigation by College personnel to other uninvolved individuals will be viewed as a serious offense and may result in discipline, up to and including termination.

NO RETALIATION

The College will use its best efforts to ensure that an employee who, in good faith, reports actual or suspected Wrongful Conduct does not suffer an adverse employment action or other retaliation because of making such report. An employee, who retaliates against another employee for making a good faith report of Wrongful Conduct, or for participating in an investigation, is subject to discipline, up to and including termination.

RESPONSIBILITY: President & Human Resources Manager

POLICY: SIGN CONTENT

DATE: July 2007

Chapter VIII, Section 3

OBJECTIVE/PHILOSOPHY:

Sitting Bull College (SBC) has for public notification purposes, an electronic sign located near the entrance of the campus. The College has created a policy regarding sign content and procedures for displaying of sign content.

REFERENCE:

PROCEDURE/CONTENT:

Following are guidelines for the posting of content on the SBC Electronic Sign. This sign was purchased for public announcement of college activities. The sign can display up to 6 lines of text at a time, but it is suggested to only do a maximum of 3 lines, as the text gets very small.

Only College sponsored activities or announcements are permitted to be on the sign. Events held at the Sitting Bull College campus are also permitted.

College sponsored activities are defined as activities or events conducted or sponsored by College employees and/or students.

Sign announcements can be posted up to 7 days before the event occurs. If there are no other announcements currently being displayed events can be posted up to 10 days before the day of the event. (Special notifications maybe posted for longer periods at discretion of Executive Coordinator to the President or IT Manager as deemed necessary. Ex: Funding application notices/ workshops)

As a general rule, up to five different announcements can be displayed on the sign in rotation. If there are more than five announcements, they will be prioritized as follows:

- College events – notices such as College closings, registration announcements, or other items affecting the college as a whole.
- Student events – notices such as club announcements (culture club, etc.) or student activities such as diversity week.
- Public events – notices for activities the public is invited to, such as guest speakers, Thanksgiving feast, board meetings, etc.

No matter what the priority, events will be displayed 24 hours before the event occurs. The prioritization rules are for helping to determine which events are displayed should there be too many requests that can be displayed at one time. To request an announcement to be displayed on the sign, send the following information to helpdesk@sittingbull.edu at least 48 hours in advance:

Exactly what you would like displayed on the sign:

- If you want 3 lines of text, each line can have up to 10-12 characters
- Two lines of text can have up to 8-10 characters
- One line of text can have up to 6 characters

Requests submitted with less than 48 hours' notice may not be on the sign when requested, but every effort will be made to fulfill the request.

You can have up to two different screens for your information. If you would like, you can request a different announcement for the day of the event that includes the time and location of the event. The days before the event you can announce the event, date and contact info.

If you would like different transitions for your text, please see the Executive Coordinator to the President or IT Manager for examples. Once your announcement is displayed on the sign, please check for spelling errors. If you would like any changes contact the Executive Coordinator to the President or IT Manager.

You can have an event item that references a news item, such as a notice of a public speaker that refers to a news release announcing the engagement.

News items are events or announcements that may not be date specific. Examples of this include news releases, job announcements or other college news. Even though the news item may not be event specific, please suggest a date range for the news item to appear on the website.

Any college sponsored event or activity can be posted on the website. There is no deadline for submitting items although your request may not be posted immediately. Events can be submitted a year in advance if you so wish.

POLICY: TECHNOLOGY SUPPORT

DATE: July 2007

Chapter VIII, Section 6

OBJECTIVE/PHILOSOPHY:

Sitting Bull College recognizes the need to have consistent and compatible hardware, software and other technology throughout the college. By having consistency the College is able to reduce costs by purchasing from the same vendor(s) and lower support costs.

REFERENCE:

PROCEDURE/CONTENT:

The use of technology at the College continues to grow at a rapid pace. A variety of hardware and software is being used by a diverse group of people to achieve a variety of goals. The Information Technology Department is charged with supporting those endeavors to the best of their abilities and in a manner consistent with the Information Technology Mission Statement.

Such support requires that a consistent set of technology be used and, when this is not possible, that the members of the college community consult with Information Technology before purchasing unsupported products. This allows IT and the faculty member, staff member, or student to come to agreement on the level of support that is desired and that can be expected.

All College technology purchases are to be approved by the IT Department. The College prefers that the IT Department purchases all technology items to ensure compatibility, licensure and support. Unapproved purchases may not be supported if deemed incompatible with current systems. The IT Department will not reduce or bypass current security practices to support unapproved software. All software shall be legally licensed for each computer the software will be installed on.

The one exception to this rule is the SBC Daycare Supervisor has access to a live video feed of the surveillance system for the daycare facilities.

SYSTEMS ARCHIVAL

Each security system archives data for a specified period of time. This period of time may be limited by the capabilities or storage available for the system, but is a minimum of two months. These periods may be extended or shortened due to college events, such as whether classes are in session, weekend events, etc.

 2. A notice of suspension shall be given to the employee which describes the deficiency or infraction involved and which states the likely consequences of further unsatisfactory performance or conduct.
 3. The notice of suspension shall be permanently retained in the employee's official personnel file.
 4. An employee suspended for disciplinary reasons will not accrue annual or sick leave during the period of suspension.
- c. An employee may be dismissed from the College service.
 1. Action may be initiated by the employee's supervisor, but shall be approved in advance by the President.
 2. A written notice of dismissal shall be given to the employee, which describes the deficiency or infraction involved.
 3. An employee that is charged with a felony may be suspended indefinitely. An employee that is convicted of a felony may be automatically dismissed.
 4. A dismissed employee may appeal the termination by following the appeal policy.
4. After step three an employee has the right to follow the grievance/termination appeal policy.

Define Insubordination

There are three components in establishing whether an employee is insubordinate. The first is that the employee shall be given an order or directive. The second is that the employee understands completely what is expected of her/him. The third is that the employee refuses to obey the order or doesn't perform the task.

Failure to Perform

If an employee is clearly given a duty and ignores the command or refuses to execute it, this is a failure to perform. If the employee has some ethical, legal, or safety concern about the order, she/he shall address this with you clearly stating his concerns on the matter. A written record of the failure to perform and any employee excuse is added to the employee's file. Employees do have the right to refuse to perform a directive if it would put them in danger or conflicts with expressed ethical or legal issues.

Intimidation or Harassment

Intimidation and harassment should have a zero-tolerance policy in the workplace. People need to feel safe and secure when at work. Any employee intimidating others, including managers, should be investigated. The employee handbook should also clearly state the policy and the protocol for dealing with harassing behavior in the workplace. Launch an investigation, make a note in the employee's files and determine if further disciplinary action is needed.

Confrontational Actions

People have differing opinions. Sometimes a subordinate disagrees with the manager or boss. Although this is not insubordination on its own, if the person confronts and disagrees with the boss in front of everyone else on the team, then this is considered insubordination. If the individual is confrontational in front of the rest of the team; or questions the leader's authority, which can lead to poor overall morale, then that should remain behind closed doors. Confrontation also includes defaming another person, spreading rumors that divide co-workers and making inappropriate comments on a regular basis. Confrontational actions need to be documented, when possible, to note in the employee file for disciplinary consideration.

Abusive Language

Saying a bad word isn't uncommon among adults. When bad language is used as a normal part of the office "shop talk" or spoken in private, this isn't considered insubordination. Nor is it insubordination if the language is provoked by a manager or superior. However, if the bad language is used in an abusive way without provocation, as a result of something the manager said or did, then this is insubordination. The action should be noted, but also take the heat of the moment into consideration. If it was a one-time outburst, this only needs to be noted in the file. If it continues to happen, this becomes ground for insubordination.

POLICY: GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

This request is given to the President, who has (3) three working days to establish and convene a hearing committee. The committee shall consist of a faculty member, a staff member, and an administrator. The employee will be allowed to select one member of the hearing committee, and the President will appoint the other two. The employee selection shall follow the College's Nepotism policy in which the employee selected cannot be related to the employee with the grievance.
