Student accommodations are about altering methods, not standards. If you have a learning exceptionality or feel you need additional support, contact the disability coordinator and give yourself the best chance at college success this fall!

Sitting Bull College recognizes its responsibility to provide reasonable accommodations for students with documented disabilities. Staff and faculty will work with students and other agencies to arrange for accommodations. If you are a student with a disability or may feel you meet the qualifications for accommodations, please contact Derek Stewart, the Disability Coordinator.

I look forward to working with all of you this year!
